IMPORTANT NOTICE!

On pages 189—191 and 268—271, will be found a few families which were omitted from their proper places, to wit: those of No's 356, 357, 571, 576, 592, 593, 604, 1491, 1492, 1602, 1603, 1873 and 1881.

A 16-page index of lineal descendants follows page 271, and is followed by an index to the names of husbands and wives.

Any family is readily traced by bearing in mind that each member has his catalogue number, and that this number follows his name, in parenthesis, when he stands at the head of his own family. For example: Turn to page 37. and the family of Dea. George Stillman (95.) is found. Now, turning back to No. 95. found on page 11. and his statistics are found. In like manner, take his daughter, Lucy, No. 370, and turn along until No. 370. is found, in parenthesis, following the head of a family, which, in this instance, is on page 115. and there is her family.

PREFACE.

The compiler of the following tables has long desired a more general acquaintance with the STILLMAN FAMILY. His mother was a Stillman, and also his first wife. To collect the data has been an immense task; but still more time would have been cheerfully given to it, could the list have been made complete. Hundreds of letters with stamped return envelopes failed to elicit any reply. This statement is made, not in any spirit of complaining, but as a partial apology for the many blanks in the following tables. This opportunity is taken to thank the many members of this family for assistance so kindly rendered in this effort. Especial mention is due to Mr. DAVID GARDINER STILLMAN of Westerly, R. I. who furnished a list of several hundred names, the results of many years of collecting. A few copies of the list are printed in the hope that those interested may be stimulated to forward additions and corrections to these tables. Should sufficient matter be received, the publication of an improved edition will be considered.

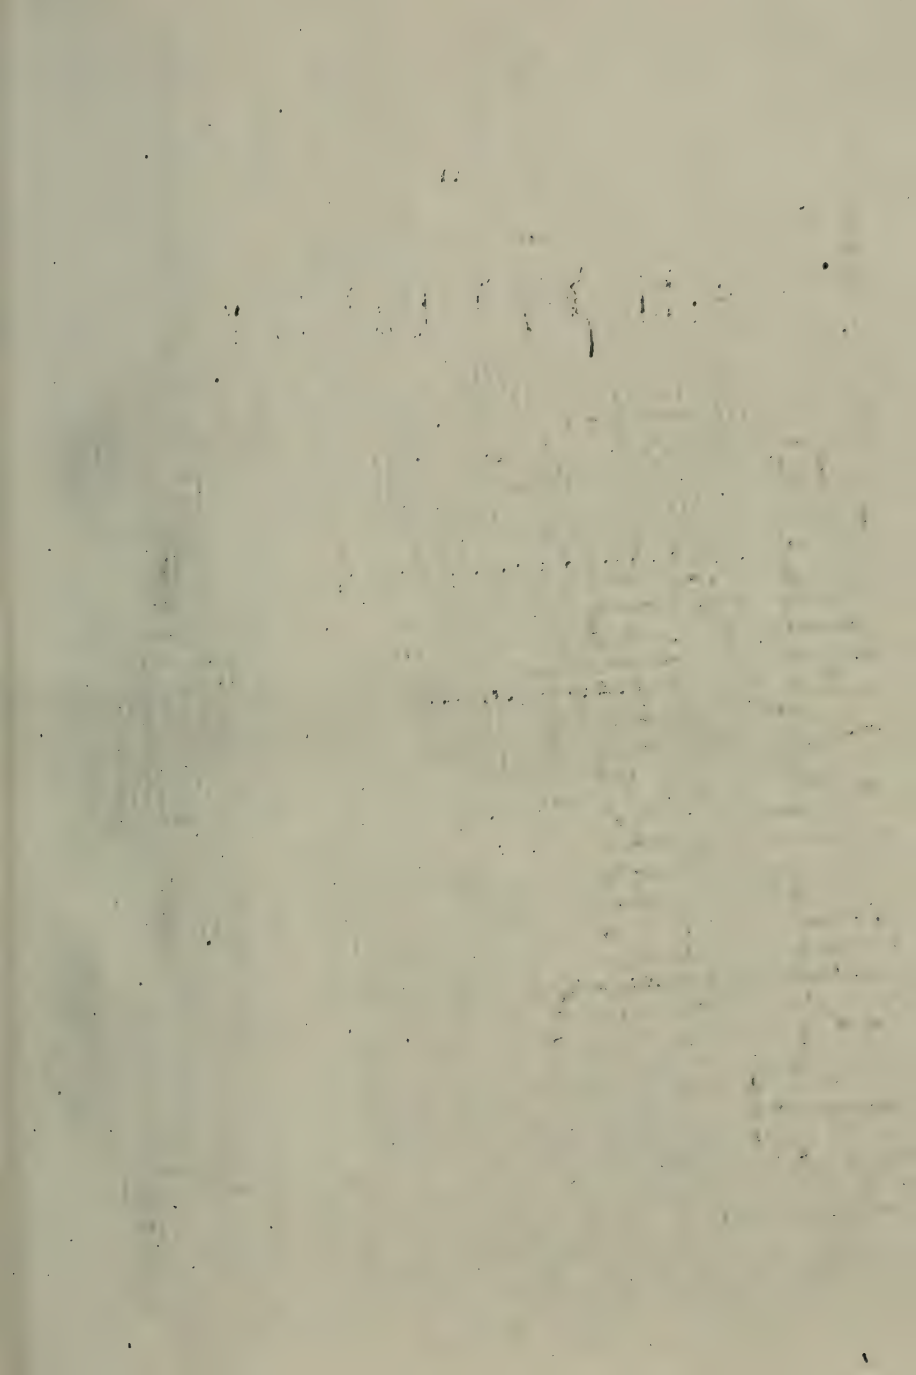

It would be too much to hope that this list should be free from fault. Some mistakes have been discovered too late for correction, and the writer regrets that, having set the types himself, he cannot charge these mistakes to the printer's boy. The writer, after some investigation, is compelled to wholly discredit all current tradition about any change in the family name.

This table begins with George Stillman who was born at Steeple Aspen, England, in 1654, and married Lady Jane Pickering of London, in 1677. In 1683, they embarked for America, leaving their only child, then about 5, years old, with friends in London. On the passage, Mrs. Stillman died and was buried at sea. Mr. Stillman settled at Hadley, Mass., on the east bank of the Connecticut River, and in 1686, married Rebecca, daughter of Lieut. Phillip Smith of that place, and granddaughter of Hon. Nathaniel Foote of Wethersfield, Ct., about 120, miles down the river. Mr. Stillman moved to Wethersfield in 1703, where he died in 1728. The son left in London came to Westerly, R. I. in 1704, and soon after, purchased a considerable tract of land known as "Crumb's Neck," in a bend of the Pawcatuck River. His descendants are known as the Rhode Island Stillmans, and those of the other branch are known as the Connecticut Stillmans. In these tables, only a few of the Connecticut appear. The Compiler regrets his failure to obtain more of their names.

Perhaps no family in America can boast a larger per centage of skilled mechanics or of industrious and enterprising citizens.

The writer takes pride in introducing himself to this family as a grandson of Dea. George Stillman 5th. (No. 95. of this catalogue.) who removed from Westerly, R. I. to Berlin, N. Y. in 1803, to Alfred, N. Y. in 1814, and to Rock River, Wis. in 1841., where he died and was buried in 1844.

Most Sincerely,
Your Cousin, Henry L. Jones. (1054.)
Wellsville, N. Y., Jan. 12, 1896.
